LASCAUX IV

International Centre for Cave Art

Located in Montignac, in the Black Périgord, Lascaux IV lies at the heart of a region rich in prehistoric sites, within the Vézère Valley, listed as a UNESCO World Heritage site for its 147 deposits dating back to the Paleolithic and its 25 decorated caves. This location offers a unique context for discovering prehistoric art.

Thanks to its proximity to the original site, the International Centre for Cave Art allows visitors to relive the emotion of the discovery while preserving this fragile treasure.

Lascaux IV provides a complete immersion into prehistoric art. The modern building, designed by the Norwegian architectural firm Snøhetta, integrates perfectly into the natural landscape of the Lascaux hill, respecting the relief and environment of the valley.

Inside, the immersive route faithfully reproduces the original cave, with lighting and circulation designed to recreate a mysterious atmosphere.

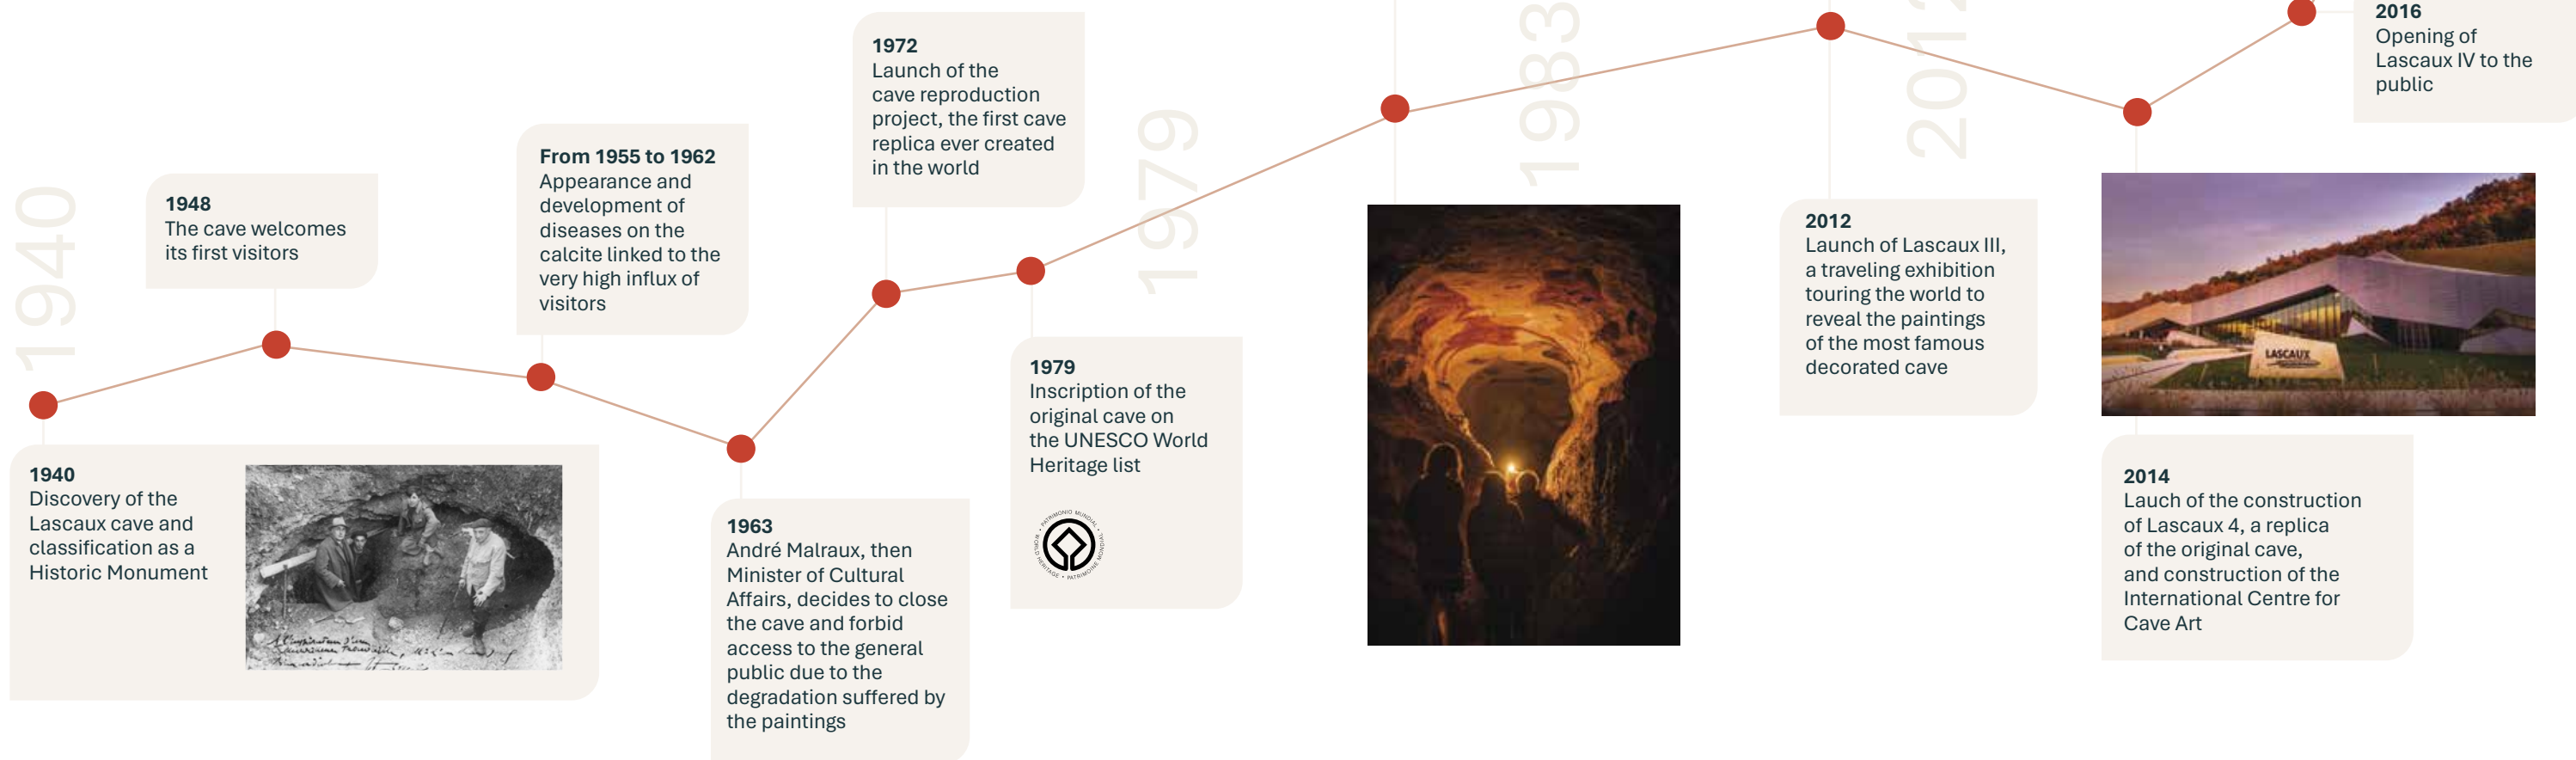

“Our intention for Lascaux IV was to make references to prehistoric art accessible through contemporary architecture and art carefully adapted to the surrounding landscape. The replica and the center are creations of our time, yet deeply anchored in the precise revelation of history. We are very honored to receive this recognition from the Houen Foundation.”

Kjetil Trædal Thorsen,
co-founder of Snøhetta

THE HISTORY of LASCAUX

Lascaux, the most famous decorated cave in the world - a must-visit!

With its approximately 2,000 engraved and painted figures revealing its incredible bestiary, it is considered one of the most important decorated caves of the Paleolithic period and undoubtedly one of the most famous. Its discovery by four intrepid teenagers in September 1940 also played a role in its fame. Also known as the Sistine Chapel of Prehistory for the quality and density of its representations, it stupefies and deeply moves anyone who admires it.

At Lascaux IV, one can today discover the replica of the cave in its entirety with a degree of precision never before equaled! Cave paintings and engravings dating back more than 20,000 years are unveiled before the visitors' eyes, marveling both young and old.

Thanks to the resources and technologies deployed, everyone can live a unique and immersive experience, exchange with the mediators, admire this extraordinary architecture, and have fun discovering the links between cave art and contemporary art... Lascaux is universal and can be explored in a thousand ways through the different visits proposed.

During a stay in Périgord, a visit to Lascaux IV is essential to question our origins, and it is the perfect introduction for a journey into prehistory in the heart of the Vézère Valley.

Highlights of the Visit

The Cave Reconstruction

The visit begins by accessing the Lascaux IV belvedere, offering your clients an exceptional panorama of the Vézère Valley, listed as a UNESCO World Heritage site. This first stop allows for an introduction to the richness of the territory and places Lascaux back in its natural setting, in the heart of the Black Périgord. Descending towards the entrance of the replica, the transition occurs gradually: from the open landscape to the underground universe. From the first steps inside, your clients will be plunged into the authentic atmosphere of a cave: darkness, coolness, silence. The integral reproduction faithfully restores the volumes, colors, and interplay of light of the original cave, offering a complete sensory immersion.

The Workshop

Included in the visit route, the Workshop prolongs the cave experience and offers your clients a deeper understanding of cave art. A true space for exploration, it allows for a new perspective on Lascaux thanks to four thematic modules and several immersive devices.

The Objects of Lascaux

Presentation of tools and pigments found in the cave, testifying to the know-how of prehistoric artists.

The Model

A faithful reconstruction of the cave's morphology to better visualize its complex structure.

The Art Experience

A participatory module, ideal for families and young audiences: visitors can experiment with cave painting and reproduce an animal using tools inspired by those of Lascaux.

The Fragile Balance

A sequence explaining how human visitation disrupted the ecosystem of the original cave, leading to its closure due to CO₂ saturation.

The Workshop also presents other reconstructed walls, allowing observation of certain Lascaux panels in detail and access to scenes invisible in the cave, such as the famous Shaft Scene, which is particularly emblematic.

Finally, a video mapping device breaks down the gestures and techniques of the prehistoric artists, offering a finer understanding of the creation of the works.

The Immersion Room

Included in the visit, the Immersion Room offers a spectacular audiovisual experience in the heart of Lascaux IV. Thanks to 360° projections, sound and light mingle to bring the history of humanity to life through three immersive shows.

New 2026 Film “One Single Humanity”

This brand-new show invites your clients to a universal reflection on our common identity: we are all Homo sapiens, originating from a single source, Africa.

A poetic and inspiring journey, carrying a strong message - to unite rather than divide, by highlighting that our similarities are far greater than our differences.

The two previous shows also remain available, allowing visitors to (re)discover the richness of Lascaux from different angles.

A unique sensory and emotional experience, ideal for touching all audiences and concluding the visit with a message of openness and humanity.

After this timeless moment, they traverse five different spaces, equipped with a digital tablet, all complementary to the cave visit: the Workshop, the Theatre, the “Lascaux and the World” cinema, the Gallery of the Imaginary, and the Immersion Room. A rich and original formula that will allow you to understand how we can conceive the preservation of our heritage today.

9 years after the construction of Lascaux IV, the Norwegian architectural firm Snøhetta receives the most prestigious Norwegian architecture award: the Houen Prize.
